

Christopher Kitchen

Christopher Kitchen was born in Winnipeg but has been living, working and building into the economy of the City of Portage la Prairie since moving here with his wife, Rhonda, in 1997. Rhonda, herself, is the owner of a successful, local business.

Christopher has a Bachelor of Arts in Theatre with majors in Directing and Youth Leadership. In addition, Christopher has been educated in marketing and promotions. Christopher and his wife live in the North West corner of Portage and are the proud parents of 23 year old Naomi Rhonda.

Using his background in theatre education, Christopher has worked with young people for the past 27 years. During this time he has also sat on numerous boards and committees and served as Executive Director for the William Glesby Centre and as morning co-host with Mix 96 FM.

Christopher currently is the Executive Producer of Prairie Drama Academy and manages the Portage Centennial Academy for the Arts which houses a number of arts organizations in the north part of the city.
